2 Year IWA Student Membership for students of the Global Sanitation Graduate School

As part of the Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) between the International Water Association (IWA) and IHE Delft Institute for Water Education (IHE Delft), these two institutions are collaborating to support career development of sanitation professionals. All students of the Global Sanitation Graduate School enrolled in the new MSc in Sanitation Program, Graduate Professional Diploma Program (GPDP) or one or more sanitation on-campus or online courses are offered a fully funded 2 year IWA student membership through the Global Sanitation Graduate School). This membership package aims to support students in building their professional network, engage them in the recently launched Non-Sewered Sanitation Specialist Group and develop their capacity to become the future leaders in developing and implementing sanitation.

Leading the future of water with you

IWA continuously works towards a world in which water is wisely managed to satisfy the needs of human activities and ecosystems in an equitable and sustainable way. Our members, based across 130 countries, are committed water specialists who help achieve IWA's goal by coming together, transcending disciplines, sectors, geographies and cultures; sharing pioneering science and leading practice; and ultimately, putting together innovative water-technology solutions for the world's pressing water issues.

With the IWA's global reach, the Global Sanitation Graduate School (GSGS) students will have access to a community of high-level experts reaching across sectors, disciplines, industries and regions. They will learn global and local world-class best practices, develop their leadership skills, expand their global network and accelerate their path towards becoming a leading water professional.

Are you looking to make a difference in the world of water? As an IWA member, you will find many ways to actively contribute to changing the water practice for a better future.
